1. Welcome

The bishop opened the meeting with prayer and welcomed the members of diocesan council. Bishop Logan thanked the members of The Church of the Advent for use of their parish hall for today's meeting. Bishop Logan welcomed the Rev. Jim Holland and the Rev. Lon Towstego as guests presenting at this meeting.

Bishop Logan acknowledged that we are on the lands of the Kwakwaka'waka, Nuu-chah-nulth and the Coast Salish peoples. He asked council to remember that we can learn from the First Nations about how we are being shaped by the land of these islands and inlets. Our work as members of diocesan council is to be leaders, working for the betterment of all peoples who call this place their home. The bishop then offered a prayer.

The bishop then spoke about his written remarks (attached to the minutes of this council meeting), which were provided to diocesan council as part of their meeting package. He reminded council that the diocesan executive team met with the archdeacons and regional deans for a planning day. Those in attendance were asked to consider what leadership needs to be in these times of change. We need to be aware that our present model of being church is not sustainable. Transforming Futures will help guide us into the changes needed, but we are unsure as to how this will be shaped.

Bishop Logan has asked the diocese to enter into a season of prayer from the Feast of Epiphany (January 6th, 2020) through to Ash Wednesday (February 26th, 2020). He asked council and all parishes to consider sharing the resources they have on hand with other parishes. He also asked that we study the book Watershed Discipleship. This is "a challenging book which speaks to how we are shaped by our environment." Study guides are being developed by the bishop and the Rev. Matt Humphrey.

The bishop also asked that the diocese set aside Lent as a time for prayer and study and to invest less energy and time into maintaining the fabric of the institution during this season. He asked diocesan council to use the meeting(s) planned for Lent 2020 as a time for prayer and study, leaving the customary work of council for a later meeting(s).

Bishop Logan finished his remarks by announcing that the lay secretary, Canon Judy Trueman, has tendered her resignation, effective January 31, 2020. The bishop has accepted this resignation. He thanked Canon Trueman for her able assistance as lay secretary for the past ten years.

The bishop asked if there were any changes to the agenda:
None were forth-coming.

Vision Reflection on a Season of Discipleship

The Rev. Jim Holland began by sharing what he saw his role to be, as chaplain at Shawnigan Lake School. Jim described the school as a gathering place for some 500 students, plus teachers and staff. The students come from many cultural and creedal backgrounds, and faith traditions. When Jim first was appointed as school chaplain, he remembers being told that he would need to figure out what it was that the chaplain does on his own. He spoke of his journey being a time of struggle and of finding his own gifts. Much of his time is spent in pastoral care and teaching as well as in the role of being pastor, spiritual guide and as a mentor.

Jim shared a reading from Matthew, chapter 13, the parable of the sower and the seed. He described this parable as being a simple, yet rich passage, ripe with metaphors. Seed comes from God and can not be created out of nothing. The best seed is always retained as seed stock for the next year's planting. God has provided an overabundance of seed to the people of faith. The harvesting we do is the result of work which has already taken place by others.

Every human heart is good ground. Bad ground is the product of the toxins of history with which we infest the world. We are not all in the same place, at the same time, when it comes to being ready to receive the seed of God's gifts. We each accept the seed from the Creator in different ways. The casting of seed, by the farmer, is paralleled in other scripture, in the casting of nets for fish. We must trust the seed will find ground suitable for growth and fulfillment, as we trust the net will find the fish. Every seed has potential for growth through words, actions and the growth of others in interpretation of God's gift.

The third metaphor is fertilization. Fertilizer comes from the waste and the failure of earlier effort. Compost is the blessing of all that has gone before, died, and is now used to feed new life.

Jim Holland finished with a poem. A copy of this poem was provided to each member of diocesan council for their personal use.

The Bishop thanked the Rev. Jim Holland for his words and thoughts.

Doing God's Work Together

The bishop noted that this will be recurring item on future agendas, beginning with the January meeting of diocesan council.

Faith in Action #1

a) Reconciliation and Beyond Team Update

The Rev. Lon Towstego shared with diocesan council a passage of scripture from 2 Corinthians 5:18-20. He reminded council that reconciliation begins within ourselves. Using a quote from The Rev. Herb O'Driscoll, Lon indicated that we need to "preach more grace and offer less judgement of ourselves." Reconciliation begins in our own hearts, then moves out into our parish, our region, our diocese, our national church and beyond.

Diocesan council was asked to move into smaller discussion groups to consider several questions. A summary of the responses from the table groups is attached to these minutes.

Bishop Logan reminded council that reconciliation is a lifestyle and a discipline; a gesture which we then make into policy.

Lon asked diocesan council to consider where the Reconciliation and Beyond team should seek to find its direction, from this point. It was suggested that there exists a level of crossover between the work of Reconciliation and Beyond with the work being started by the Dismantling Racism team.

SECONDED BY: Dawna Wall

That diocesan council thanks the members of the Reconciliation and Beyond team for their continued work. Council supports the mandate of the Reconciliation and Beyond team going forward and requests that they report to diocesan council in the next few months regarding their direction and the finances required in this ongoing work.

Parishes are experiencing difficulty with being able to discern what is their dream for their parish. He indicated that more congregations are understanding that a substantial proportion of these funds is returned to parishes through program and grants.
