From Pastor Callum... (October 18)

Thank you for your constant prayer and support. I am very grateful. Mom is progressing. She's still tired but less frustrated and more optimistic about coming out of hospital and moving to my sister's. Dad is always optimistic. He is looking forward to not having to struggle with stairs and being with mom at my sister's. He does have some pressure sores from sitting most of the time. We arranged for a nurse to do a home visit. Some specialist aids will be given to him, including cushions and a riser for his bed so he can sleep with his head up. In any case, he never complains and is always grateful for the help I or my sister or Catherine is giving.

Mom can't eat solid food. Catherine has been making a variety of vegetable soups which we take to mom. These are much more appetizing than puréed egg on toast (yes, you read that correctly!)

We've cleared most of the house now and have chosen a realtor to sell it. I found a charity that will bring a truck to the house to take some of the larger furniture. Catherine and I will also ship to Canada some items we want to keep. My sister will have other items. Sadly, we can't keep everything.

Dakota and Skylyn have been magnificent. They've never complained about the amount of time we must give to clearing the house, sorting out documents, and visiting my mom.

Our return flight is booked for Monday, October 28. By that date, my father will move to my sister's house. The bedroom and washroom for my parents won't be fully complete until a week after that, but my sister wants dad to be settled before my mom is discharged. In any case, once we return to Vancouver there won't be anyone to look after dad at his home.

It's a strange feeling knowing that we are counting down the days to when we say goodbye to this house. This house was my childhood home. There are so many memories. And yet, my home now is where the Lord has taken me - and that's Trinity. We will see you soon.

Many blessings and much love, Pastor Callum

Callum 牧師的母親持续康復中，等待妹妹的家裝修好後，將父母親接過去照顧。父母親原本居住的老宅已經大致清理好，準備出售。牧師全家已訂好機票，10月28號返回溫哥華。特別感謝弟兄姐妹們的代禱.(請找人為你翻譯全文.)
