Dear sponsors:

I hope you are doing well. In this letter, I will try to make a summary of the year 2019: tell you a little about my experiences in terms of my education, family, health and my country.

I will start by telling you about the New Year. Thank God, I celebrated it with my whole family enjoying a great dinner around the table. Then, at 12:00 we hug and leave messages of support for each other.

In February, I prepared myself for my classes, since March was approaching. They bought the supplies with the money that you sent me. By the way, thank you very much!

March came and classes began. The first and second day went well for me. I made new friends. I had a great best friend. My family met him. One weekend, we went to the snow. My older brother took us. He became part of our family. We went together to our first party and I also met his family.

I went to her aunt's house a few times, because that was where they celebrated every birthday. So it was for a few months. I also helped him with his homework, because it was a bit hard to him. Until October everything was fine.

The so-called "SOCIAL OUTBREAK" started. Because in the news they announced that the bus fare would go up by Ch$ 30. On October 18, hundreds of students demonstrated evading the subway passage and thus more people joined. From that day on, nothing returned to normality. People took various places in the capital: high schools, jobs, communes, etc. I don't exactly remember the date, but the curfews started.

They also suspended classes for two weeks, so I was at home most of the time. Moving forward in time, my birthday arrived. They gave me a cake that I really enjoyed.

The marches continued and we returned to class. Well, at the end of December everyone on TV was talking about the Covid-19 virus. We again spent New Year as a family.

They announced many marches for March. March arrived and, as it was supposed, the virus arrived in Chile. Someone returning to Chile was a possible case.
